READY FOR Fun in the Sun?

Each year, millions of people are treated for skin cancer, and about 90 percent of nonmelanoma skin cancers are linked to exposure to ultraviolet radiation from the sun.

Protect your skin by using a broad-spectrum sunscreen with SPF of 15 or higher every day, and be sure to wear a hat and UV-blocking sunglasses. What else can you do to protect yourself? Thoroughly examine your own skin from head to toe each month, and contact us to arrange an annual skin exam by a professional.
